A HISTORY OF THE PROJECT

In the fall of 2017 a committee was chosen to look into the possibility of acquiring a new building to house the headquarters and museum of the Pitts-field Historical Society. After examining 24 "for sale" buildings and vacant lots, nothing suitable was found. The selectmen then suggested the Society look into the town-owned property at the top of Factory Hill.

With the support of many citizens and the Beautification Committee, it was decided to move forward.

After the necessary size was determined, two floors, 30' x 80', the committee met with architects, design-ers, site work specialists, foundation in-stallers, heating experts, electricians, plumbers, solar experts, carpenters, and framers.

Members of the Planning Board, Board of Selectmen, and the Fire Chief were also consulted and plans were developed.

Ground breaking for the new headquarters and museum will take place during the spring of 2019.
